IPT Spanish Oral Tests

Two methods for deriving the norms are presented. The methods differ by their accuracy. The first method is the more accurate, but it requires a longer test administration procedure. The second method is less accurate due to an assumption that must be made to derive the norms. It is important to use the same method of norm-referenced score derivation for all scores that are intended to be compared to each other (for example, student-to-student comparisons, or year-to-year comparison of the same student's performance).

Method 1: Administering the test starting at the beginning

The published norms in the IPT Spanish Oral technical manuals reflect this method, which was employed during field testing of the IPT Spanish Oral tests. As a result, this method produces the most accurate norm-referenced scores for each student. Test administration is always started with item #1, and the stopping rules are applied during testing. The number of correct responses is tallied at the end of testing. See Tables 1–11 in this document for the norm derivation tables.

Method 2: Administering a potentially shortened test

This method makes use of Ballard & Tighe's recommended starting levels for students who are known to have basic Spanish skills. The recommended starting levels may allow the test to be started at a later point than item #1 based on earlier test performance. This method requires an assumption to be made about the student's performance on the items at the beginning of the test that were skipped. Specifically, it requires the assumption that the student would have had correct answers for all of the skipped items. The student's raw score, for the purpose of deriving norm-referenced scores, would then be equal to the number of items in any test levels skipped at the beginning of the test plus the number of correctly answered items in the level(s) that were actually administered. Because of this assumption, this method produces less accurate scores than Method 1, and it is very important that scores using Method 2 not be compared to scores using Method 1. However, if Method 2 is applied consistently to all score records, Tables 1–11 in this document may be used to derive norm-referenced scores for the IPT Spanish Oral Tests.

Norm-referenced score derivation tables for the IPT Spanish Oral Tests

Tables 1–11 provide the scaled scores, percentiles, and normal curve equivalent (NCE) scores yielded by the IPT Spanish Oral Tests using Method 1 or Method 2. Tables 1–3 cover the Spanish Pre-IPT, Tables 4–9 cover the IPT I–Spanish Oral, and Tables 10–11 cover the IPT II–Spanish Oral.

IPT Spanish Reading Tests

The norms for the IPT Spanish Reading Tests are presented in Tables 12 through 20. The tables vary by IPT test and grade. Tables 12 through 14 contain norms for the IPT Early Literacy Spanish Test, 2nd Edition with norm year 2014. Table 12 is for kindergarten students tested in the fall, Table 13 is for kindergarten students tested in the spring, and Table 14 is for 1st grade students.

Within each table for the IPT–Early Literacy, IPT 1–, IPT 2–, and IPT 3–Spanish Reading Tests, the scaled scores, percentile ranks, and normal curve equivalents (NCEs) are presented for each Reading raw score value. For example, a kindergarten student tested in the fall for initial identification using the second edition IPT–Early Literacy Spanish Reading Test has a Reading raw score of 30. Using Table 12, we find that the student’s scaled score, percentile rank, and NCE are 185, 69, and 60, respectively.

IPT Spanish Writing Tests

The norms for Writing are presented in Tables 21 through 28. Within each table, the scaled scores, percentile ranks, and normal curve equivalents (NCEs) are presented for each possible Writing raw score value.

Tables 21 through 23 contain norms for the IPT Early Literacy Spanish Writing Test, 2nd Edition with norm year 2014. Table 21 is for kindergarten students tested in the fall, Table 22 is for kindergarten students tested in the spring, and Table 23 is for 1st grade students. To use the tables, you do not need to perform any calculations, but you need to know the student's raw score in each part of the writing test. First find the section of the table with the student's score for the first part, then within that section, the score for the second and then the third (and for 1st graders, fourth) part. The scaled scores, percentiles, and NCEs are found to the right of the final raw score row that you locate. For example (refer to Table 21), a kindergarten student tested in the fall for initial identification has a score of 7 in Part 1, 1 in Part 2, and 2 in Part 3. Her scaled score, percentile, and NCE are 199, 77, and 66, respectively.

Tables 24 to 28 deal with the IPT 1–, IPT 2–, and IPT 3–Spanish Writing tests. To use these tables, you need to know the student's score in Part 1, the multiple choice part of the Writing Test, and the sum of the student's productive writing ratings in Parts 2 and 3. Start by finding the correct table for the student's grade and test form, and then in that table, the student's score for Part 1. Within that section of the table, find the student's productive writing score and read the conversion to scaled score, percentile, and/or NCE on that line.

The scaled scores for writing are a weighted average of scaled scores on the different parts of the Writing test. Part 1 contributes 33% to the scaled score for Writing and Parts 2 and 3 contribute the remaining 67%. The reason for this weighting is so that the overall score is comprised mostly of writing performances and reflects the appropriate contributions of each section for assigning designations.
